FROM JAMES R. PRINGLE'S HISTORY OF GLOUCESTER

[SEE PAGE 15]

“Champlain did not round Eastern Point and explore the harbor on this voyage, but made another excursion in the vicinity of what is now Cape Ann in September, 1606, entered the harbor and tarried for a time, effecting necessary repairs to his ship and its accoutrements. He named the harbor Le Beauport, the beautiful harbor, and as far as we have any certain knowledge he was the first white man who trod the shores of Cape Ann.

At that time Cape Ann was the home of a thrifty settlement of Red Men. Champlain drew a map of the place, which was afterwards published with an account of his travels, which was reprinted in Quebec in 1870. The map referred to gives a very graphic pictorial illustration of the topography of what is now the heart of the city. On this map is delineated a few trees, and at frequent intervals wigwams, with smoke issuing from an aperture, occupy the ground. Near each of these habitations is an enclosure, evidently a cornfield.

When Champlain landed the savages had already gathered their harvest. There were some two hundred in number seen by the discoverer, the chief of whom was Quiouhamenec, who, accompanied by Cohonepec, paid Champlain a visit shortly after he came ashore, and they were hospitably entertained by the French voyagers. One-mechin, a Saco chief, also came to see Champlain, and was given a coat, but gave it away because it did not fit him.”

Dianthus Beatrix

(HARDY GARDEN PINK)

FEATURED BY

QUIOUEHAMENEC FARM

SWINSON BROS.

GLOUCESTER

MASSACHUSETTS

Dianthus “Beatrix”

The Dianthus “Beatrix” is without doubt the outstanding hardy perennial plant that has been introduced in recent years not only for general planting but more especially for borders and rockeries, being a very rapid grower, free bloomer and very hardy and will withstand a very large amount of abuse, and is deserving of a place in every garden. It can also be used as a pot plant in a cool greenhouse.

It is a form of Dianthus latifolius with very dark green foliage, and the flowers which are of a light salmon pink color are very double and each about one and one-half inches in diameter, borne in dense clusters, forming in late May and June such a mass of pink it seems as if one could walk on top of them and if kept picked will continue to bloom throughout the season, in fact the flowers used in the accompanying cut were picked in November after several very heavy frosts.

The flowers are borne on stems from nine to twelve inches, are very fragrant and will remain fresh and bright for more than a week.

Stock is limited and orders will be filled in rotation.

Plants are grown in pots and can be shipped at any time of the year. All stock “Federal Inspected.”

Plants in 2½ inch pots, $3 per 12; $20 per 100; 3½ inch pots, $4 per 12; $30 per 100; plus Parcel Post. Packing Free.

Extract from "Horticulture"—January 15, 1931 issue

THE NOVELTIES OF 1931

A hardy garden pink of merit is the dianthus Beatrix. Its blooms which appear in Spring and again in early August are very double and about one and one-quarter inches across. Their fragrance is exquisite and their color distinct, being light salmon pink. The plants themselves are compact and very hardy. This is an excellent plant for rock gardens.

Hollyhock Delphiniums

Our Hollyhock Delphiniums are grown for seed either selected with the greatest care from our own stock or from imported seed of highest quality.

We won the blue ribbon and two Certificates of Merit when shown at the Topsfield Fair.
